Dense Rubber

Solid Rubber Construction

ISO 9001:2008

Choosing the right product is important in proper seal, hose and gasket design on a heavy duty application.

If your application requires you to staple, screw or in some way fasten that may promote tears, the use of a dense rubber product is needed.

If your product requires the use of heavier than average doors, lids, windows or other accessories then a dense product from Clean Seal, Inc. will fit your needs perfectly. The solid rubber construction of dense products also assists in abrasion and tear resistance.
